Parisian policemen are being mounted on bicycles. The police officials are bound to get thieves on the run, comments the Hartford Journal.

In the opinion of an expert the substitution of the Italian for the Irishman and the German in laboring circles is the prime cause of the falling off in sunstroke.

There are about 68,000 postoffices in the United States. About 67,000 of them do not pay their running expenses. The profit of the New York postoffice is $4,000,000 a year.

The national guardsmen of New York will hereafter be presented by the State with a handsome medal for long service. These medals are to be presented for a service of thirty, twenty-five, twenty, fifteen and ten years, and are designed to be manufactured of eighteen karat solid gold, gold and silver, silver and bronze, and bronze, according to the increased years of service. There is no difference in the design, except that the medal for thirty years is set with brilliants.

Heat holidays have now been established by law in the public schools of Switzerland, and, in the opinion of the New York Tribune, our educational authorities might do worse than take a hint from this enterprising and progressive little republic, which for centuries has been famed for its enlightenment and common-sense. Recognizing the well known fact that the brain cannot work properly when the heat is excessive, the children are dismissed from their tasks whenever the thermometer goes above a certain point. Were this sensible regulation to be adopted in this country steps would have to be taken to safeguard the thermometer from being nefariously doctored by the enterprising American schoolboy.

Dr. Erwin F. Smith, of the department of agriculture, described to the American Association for the Advancement of Science the other day an important discovery that he has made of a pest which has been giving great and increasing trouble to the watermelon raisers of the South. It is a fungus growth, which attacks the vines under the ground, speedily stopping up the minute water ducts of the plant, and causing it to wither away. He asserts that this year the South has lost many thousands of dollars' worth of melons through the ravages of this disease. Dr. Smith does not suggest any remedy for the disease, but he thinks that a good deal might be done for its extermination by burning the old vines. He thinks that many farmers are responsible for its spread, as they are accustomed to gather up the old vines, and allow them to rot on their compost heaps for manure.

The Russian thistle, that has created so much disturbance in the Dakotas as to cause a bill to be introduced in Congress appropriating money for its eradication, has made its appearance in Illinois, states the Chicago Record, and the farmers are called upon to do their utmost to eradicate the imported pest. The worst feature of the weed is the great rapidity with which its spreads over vast areas of territory, the seed being easily scattered by the wind. It is not a hard weed to deal with if taken in time, for it is an annual plant, and if cut before seeding - the last half of August - it is effectually destroyed. It is not so difficult a weed to deal with as the Canada thistle, which seems to thrive by repeated cutting. If the Russian thistle has secured a foothold in this State, it is very likely to spread fast and far. Once established in the highways and along railroad tracks, all attempts to dislodge it will be of little avail. The country highway seems to be devoted to the propagation of noxious weeds, while the right of way of a railroad company is not kept with much idea of killing weeds. The Russian thistle is eagerly eaten by sheep, and, if cut when young, is liked by cattle. It is not a worse pest on a farm than the ox-eye daisy. But the farmers of Illinois have enough to contend with without the Russian thistle being added to their burdens, and self-interest should prompt them to a vigorous warfare against this newly arrived foreigner.

Louisiana thinks she is going to equal California and Florida as an orange raiser. Why do we hear nothing about oranges in Texas? asks the American Farmer. There should be an immense growth there.

A NIGHT'S CYCLONE.

Death and Destruction
In Its Path.

Property Loss Roughly Estimated at $1,000,000.

Chief Damage Done in Farming Region.

One hundred dead may be the final report of the destruction of life by the recent cyclone in Minnesota. It already reaches the neighborhood of 75, while the injured number several times as many. Some of the losses are expected to be heavy. The property loss is very heavy and it is almost impossible at this time to obtain anything more than rough estimates. The storm originated near Minneapolis, and passed east and north to northern Iowa and southern Minnesota, finally passing over into Wisconsin. The fury of the storm was here, being in the line of the destruction of Spring Valley. There are four persons dead, while the property loss is estimated at $500,000. At Le Roy, Wis., a wind storm of great violence was experienced. The destruction of property amounts to about $75,000. Five miles north of Osgood, Wis., six persons were killed and a large number of buildings destroyed.

East at Le Roy, a town of about 100 souls, three persons were fatally hurt and the whole country for miles around was laid in ruins. The loss of property was estimated at $100,000. Four miles north of Mason City, Ia., four persons were killed outright and as many more probably fatally hurt, while all the buildings were destroyed. The loss of property was estimated at $100,000. ## BOSTON WHOLESALE MARKETS.

[To make the following quotations of value to buyer and seller alike, it will be necessary to carefully note the preliminary remarks which precede the articles quoted. In a market of this character it is impossible to give prices for every day of the week, but noting the general tendency of trade, those given will be found sufficiently close to enable dealers to base their transactions thereon.]

There is a fair amount of steadiness shown in the merchandise market. Buyers of flour are making their purchases close. The corn market is firmer with a rather light supply. Oats move quietly. The demand for butter is quiet, with prices well maintained for choice goods. There is a fair demand for eggs. Potatoes are steady and prices firm. Hay continues quiet for choice with low grades dull. Rye straw active. Cured provisions are in moderate demand. Fresh meats are quoted a little higher. Refined sugar is quoted lower.
